

Building material lists

The building material lists ÖA and ÖE

The building material lists are used in establishing usage regulations for construction products in Austria. A distinction is made between the following building material lists:

- The building material list ÖA
- The building material list ÖE

The building material list ÖA serves to establish usage regulations for construction products for which no harmonised technical specifications exist and which therefore cannot bear the CE marking. The building material list ÖE serves to establish the usage regulations for building products which are CE marked.

However, not all construction products are included in either the building materials list ÖA or the building materials list ÖE – only those for which it seems necessary to define usage regulations are included. There are currently no explicit usage regulations for all other construction products which are neither included in the materials list ÖA or nor the materials list ÖE, but all of them are subject to compliance with the building regulations of the Federal States.

Source URL: <https://www.oib.or.at/en/building-material-lists>